Insurance/Reinsurance Coverage

Schuyler, Roche & Crisham attorneys' expertise in all facets of insurance and reinsurance coverage sets them apart from most law firms. Their practice covers advising and consulting, throughout the U.S., policyholders, insurers and reinsurers on a full range of insurance coverage and policy issues, including coverage disputes, defense of claims, indemnification, liability limits, policy exclusions and targeted tenders. We also represents insurers in resolving inter-company disputes.

Among the diverse subject areas served by Schuyler, Roche & Crisham are environmental, asbestos and toxic torts and other long-tail issues involving general liability policies. In addition, the firm has significant experience with insurance coverage for Design and other Professionals, Contractors, Health Care Providers, Directors and Officers, Insurance Producers, and Employers, as well as coverage for Insurers and Bad Faith Claims. Another area of expertise includes first-party insurance, Marine Coverage, Pollution Coverage and reinsurance and retrocession coverage. In addition, the team also represents various professionals, including Insurance Agents and Brokers and Attorneys, in connection with disputes regarding the placement, interpretation and litigation involving insurance programs.

Schuyler, Roche & Crisham attorneys are widely acknowledged leaders in the realm of insurance and reinsurance coverage. They lecture extensively and have authored many highly regarded publications in the field, including Tom Crisham's work as contributing author of Prosecuting and Defending Insurance Claims. John O'Malley, a partner with the firm, brings vast experience to bear for his clients and is respected by attorneys and insurance companies alike. He has created and introduced seminars and in-house programs to insurance companies, insurance producers and their clients with respect to risk management and risk transfer, claims handling practice, and insurance coverage. John and his fellow attorneys at Schuyler, Roche & Crisham are highly experienced in virtually every aspect of risk management and insurance coverage. They are known throughout the industry for their skills as negotiators, advocates, litigators and appellate counsel.

There is one simple reason that Schuyler, Roche & Crisham is at the forefront of insurance and reinsurance coverage. No law firm can match the group's combined breadth and depth of subject expertise and all-consuming passion to resolve legal disputes in their clients' best interests.

Few midsize law firms have the in-house expertise to address all aspects of risk management, insurance and reinsurance coverage. Schuyler, Roche & Crisham is at the forefront.
